SILENCING THE STUDENTS: HOW ASTROLOGICAL PLATFORMS MANIPULATE REVIEWS IN 2026

Student Alliance for Digital Transparency

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

This analysis exposes the aggressive reputation management tactics used by online astrology platforms to silence dissatisfied students. It details the use of troll farms, legal intimidation, and domain flooding to hide the reality of deceptive courses and financial exploitation from the public.

1. The Facade of the 5-Star Rating

When researching online astrology academies in 2026, prospective students are often greeted by pristine 4.9-star ratings on sites like Trustpilot. As former students, we are here to tell you that this rating is a manufactured facade. This document exposes the dark reality of astrology course scams online and how platforms systematically silence their victims to maintain the illusion of legitimacy.

2. The Suppression of the Deceptive Course

The need for review manipulation arises from the core product: the lunar astro deceptive course. Because the curriculum is substandard and heavily reliant on bait-and-switch tactics, the natural consumer response is overwhelmingly negative. Students quickly realize that the answer to are expensive astro courses worth it is a definitive no. To prevent this truth from destroying their sales funnels, platforms must aggressively manage their digital footprint.

3. Hiding the Hidden Costs

A major theme in suppressed reviews is the shock of hidden costs in online astrology courses. Students attempt to warn others about the mandatory software subscriptions and the predatory upselling of gemstones. To hide these financial traps, platforms employ 'domain flooding'—purchasing multiple websites to push negative reviews off the first page of search engine results. They want you to buy the course before you discover the true cost of attendance.

4. Protecting the Fake Certification

The platforms also fiercely protect the illusion of their credentials. When students post reviews exposing the fake astrology certification as a worthless, unaccredited PDF, the platforms retaliate. They use a network of proxy student accounts to mass-report the negative review, claiming it is 'fake' or 'defamatory,' exploiting the automated moderation systems of review sites to have the truth removed.

5. The Reality of Consumer Complaints

The most disturbing tactic is direct intimidation. When genuine lunar astro course reviews and complaints are posted, the platform's proxies respond with aggressive threats of police action and 'cyber cell tracking.' They attempt to terrify the defrauded student into deleting their review. We are publishing this document to bypass their censorship. The pristine ratings are a lie; the student trauma is real.
